ALDI Voluntarily Recalls L'oven Fresh 12 Grain Bread Wide Pan

Batavia, Ill. (Feb. 20, 2013) ALDI has voluntarily recalled its L'oven Fresh 12 Grain Bread Wide Pan with a "Best By" date prior to and including Feb. 20, 2013, due to the possible presence of flexible wire caused by a faulty part on the production line at a third-party flour mill. ALDI already removed the affected product from the stores' selling floor on Feb. 15, 2013.

However, upon notification by our supplier, Bimbo Bakeries USA, ALDI initiated a voluntary recall as a precautionary measure in case customers have the affected product in their homes. The bread affected by this voluntary recall was sold in the baked goods section of ALDI stores, and is in a 24-ounce package. The affected product was available in ALDI stores in the following states: Arkansas, Connecticut, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Maryland, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Carolina, Texas, Vermont, Virginia, Washington, DC, West Virginia and Wisconsin.

At ALDI, we take the safety and integrity of the products we sell very seriously. If customers have product affected by this voluntary recall, they should discard it immediately or return it to their local store for a full refund.

ALDI sincerely regrets any inconvenience and concern this voluntary recall may cause.
